This art piece was one of my favorites not only because of the details but the palette. I went to a high school called Huron Heights, that's why I painted the Huron, and the label has that pun.

I've been exploring all areas of art for as long as I can remember. Though, I began my journey in mural art around three years ago and have since participated in, led, and directed numerous mural projects.

With a strong foundation of experience and an unwavering passion for art, I specialize in creating vibrant, dynamic murals that transform spaces. Whether you're looking to elevate your business, make a bold statement, or personalize your home, I am dedicated to bringing your vision to life with creativity and precision.

I went to an art high school, so this piece was dedicated to the different majors. It was hung up in the front foyer of my high school.

This was one of my murals, the fiery sun took a lot of trial and error to get right. But I love it. My little sister is the one standing next to the painting

About Me: (In the nav bar write about me instead of page 2)

I'm from Toronto, Canada. My dad was born and raised in Japan, and my mom in Ukraine. They met at BYU Provo. My older siblings were born in Chicago, and I was the first one born in Canada.

This is my second-semester studying computer science. I'm excited to continue learning and growing in this field.

I love snowboarding and have been doing it for the past three years. There's nothing like the thrill of carving through fresh powder.

Art is another passion of mine, and I enjoy it in all its forms. Whether it's visual arts, dance, music, or fashion, I find them all inspiring.

This semester, I'll be participating in Cultural Night. I'm part of the Asian Pop group, and we'll be performing a dance to the songs: Debut by KATSEYE, Armageddon by aespa and Gento by SB19.
